Although it is not a dog park, it is popular with dog owners. No swimming is permitted in either of the two man-made ponds. In addition to the ponds, the area features an expansive meadow and a large woodland which extends into Harvard 1. Trails connect to Vaughn Hills (map 2) in Bolton and other conservation land in Harvard (https://harvardconservationtrust.org/trails/). This whole connected conservation area was a joint purchase by the Town of Bolton and the Town of Harvard in 1973. Bowers Springs is also a host site of the Tom Denney Nature Camp, an outdoor program for local children sponsored by Bolton Conservation Trust.
