Powder House : Built in 1811. Regulations set by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts prohibited towns from storing ammunition and powder at a Meeting House. A nearby sign explains the history.

Old Town Road: Was officially laid out in 1764 as a short connection to the North part of town, but had probably been in use for many years before.

First Parish Church: Was founded in 1741. Since 1931 it has brought together people from different traditions. The church maintains affiliations with The Unitarian Universalist Association, The American Baptist Churches and The United Church of Christ. The building dates from 1928 the earlier, second meeting house burned in 1926.

Suggested walks:

Several lengths, but challenging - start at the Town Hall and ascend to the Powder House by the direct route , return by any of the trails. It's a rewarding, but long and rolling walk (over 2 miles) using the high level route over the Philben Land to Quail Run  and back via the Old Town Road, but there is plenty to see such as the Whitcomb Garrison House.

Short and gentle ascent to the Powder House - take the Ronald W Evans Trail from the western end of the Church parking lot with an out and back to the Building. If you feel like it, take a break at the mediation area to read, ponder watch wildlife or whatever. Return by any of many routes possibly including a stop at the Town Common  where you can try the outdoor  musical instruments.

Fitness Trail - There are several fitness stations where you can test and improve your strength along this route which starts at the Town Common.

Connections: The Houghton Farm Area (Map 13) can be accessed very easily from the Garrison House site at the end of the Old Town Road by a short walk along Houghton Farm Road.
